

Immanuel College

David was invited to speak to employees in the Grounds, Properties and Maintenance Departments of various Lutheran Secondary Schools about perception, body language and inspiration for a period of 2 hours.

David was able to engage a tough audience and draw every person in the room into participating in activities that were clearly out of their comfort zone.

He was able to make people challenge their way of thinking in an entertaining way. While some people appeared to walk out of the session dismissive of the challenges offered they all, without exception were engaged in lively debate for days after.

David's aim was to make people assess their way of thinking and he clearly achieved this.

We are still talking about the "Bad Monkey!"

KYM BARNETT
Immanuel College

September 2012